Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 12 Aug 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showery in northwest, many other areas mostly fine.

Today:
Most parts starting dry with sunny intervals, some southeastern parts reasonably warm by afternoon. However a band of drizzly rain affects parts of southern England for a time, while northwestern parts of UK turning windier with increasingly frequent, heavy showers.

Tonight:
Showers continuing in the northwest, albeit more restricted to coasts and hills as winds ease. Elsewhere a lot of dry weather with variable cloud, just isolated showers.

Friday:
A lot of dry weather in the south with sunshine in places, although a few locations may catch a shower. Further north, showers more frequent with winds stronger too.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cloud and outbreaks of rain developing in western and then central areas this weekend before clearing southwards during Monday. Some sunny spells elsewhere but showery and breezy in the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.